History of World War Reconstruction Aides

AAGOT, CHRISTIANSON, P. T.

Fort Sam Houston.

ABBEY, MARY L., MRS., O. T., St. Luke's Hospital, 1439 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Served at Fort Sheridan from March, 1919 to August, 1920 in Ward No. 59 and Jewelry Department. Broke my leg in our clean oiled corridor, and was in Nurses Infirmary sixteen weeks, going back and forth each day to Ward No. 59 in a wheel chair, teaching on the ward until 4 P. M., then back to Nurses Ward, teaching them from 4 to 10 P. M. I felt that I at least fought the 'Battle of Fort Sheridan.'

"In the summer of 1920, came to St. Luke's and in spring of 1923, went to Great Lakes' Naval Hospital where six and seven hundred ex-service men were hospitalized, mostly ex-soldiers, and a few sailors. I was there for three years, then back to St. Luke's where I am at present."

ABEL, C. JEANNETTE (Professional name, Jean Abel), O. T., 1307 E. Wilson Ave., Glendale, Calif.

"The most interesting work I have done has been the pottery teaching. For four years, I had a first class, fully equipped pottery, where we did our own modeling, glazing, and firing, and produced some very original and a few very beautiful pieces. For the past year, the pottery work has been discontinued and we have done a glorified kind of Gesso work, turning out large and original hand decorated screens. I have three children, the youngest a sophomore at Grinnell College in Iowa. My daughter, Betty Bacon, who was an ambulance driver under the Red Cross when Fort Sheridan first was opened as a hospital in the bitter winter days of 1918, is now married and has two babies, a boy and a girl."

BOND, MABEL AMELIA MAYO, O. T., Studio, 1530 Lincoln St., Rear, Denver, Colo.

"Reported for duty Walter Reed General Hospital, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C., Nov. 16, 1918. Previously I had been Director of Occupational Therapy for four years in Northampton State Hospital, Northampton, Mass. I had my orders to report to duty Nov. 6 and left Northampton ten days later.

"I was among the fortunate early aides to see the Occupational Therapy Centre grow at Walter Reed. We used to sit around the big stove on cold mornings and listen to interesting crafts lectures. I worked on the 'Forties' and I had an interesting group of Psychopathic patients. I was taken sick with the flu and at the same time I was designated Head Aide, and ordered to report to General Hospital No. 34, East Norfolk, Mass. I was sick in quarters a month and on Jan. 13, 1919 I reported for duty at No. 34, where I remained for six months. We had an interesting group of 200 patients and a large personnel. The camp was so small that we had a most exciting time socially, and I know that I had the best five Aides in the U. S. A. We had a wonderful toy shop and made tin airplanes. Ask Mrs. Piper if we didn't have a wonderful shop.

"On June 18, 1919, I was transferred to No. 43, Hampton, Va. Almost all of us at No. 34 were transferred to No. 43. We found a wonderful spot with thousands of patients living on the water at the 'National Soldiers' Home.' I had charge of the Craft Shop where we had a weaving class, leather work, and jewelry. At the end of six months five Aides out of a group of 75 were left. We were transferred to No. 2, Ft. McHenry, Feb. 1, 1920. We spent four months of interesting work at Ft. McHenry and I was discharged from the service June 9, 1920.

"At the close of my service in the U. S. A., I accepted the position as Director of O. T. at the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases, and I remained in Philadelphia for four years and eight months. In March 1925 I came to Denver, Colo., and organized the Occupational Therapy Department at the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital.

"I am living with a very interesting friend, Josephine Hurlburt who is an artist, a craftswoman, and expert carver. She is the Director of the Art Department at 'The Kent School for Girls' in Denver. Miss Hurlburt and I live in a garage. We have made it over into a studio. I have my loom there and weave a great deal and Miss Hurlburt spends most of her spare time carving. We also have drawing classes at our studio and during the holidays we have many interesting gifts for sale."

BONNEY, ZAIDEE E., P. T., 1210 N. Prospect St., Tacoma, Washington.

"Orders: Jan. 13, 1919. Duty: Fort Sheridan, Feb. 2, 1919, to Oct. 1, 1920. My discharge from service became effective Nov. 8, 1920. As I had taken no leaves, that time was allowed after my return home."

BOOTH, BARBARA (Mrs. Frederick Davis), P. T., 1172 Oak St., Eugene, Oregon.

Chief P. T. Aide at Camp Lewis. Married in June 1926 to Mr. Frederick Davis.

BORWELL, LAURA B., P. T., 109 W. Wilson Ave., Madison, Wisconsin.

"I was one of the teachers of Physical Education who took the War Emergency Course for Physio Therapists at Reed College, Portland, Oregon, from June to September, 1918. I held a part time teaching position on the staff. First assignment was overseas via New York, where I enjoyed "Season Salad" for six curious and never forgotten weeks at the Hotel Albert: vaccination, triple typhoid, overseas equipment, intimidation by Chief Nurse, Miss Lane, etc., etc. Actual location: Jan. 1, 1919 our unit of nine, with Laura Plunkett as Head Aide, started for Station Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas. I became Head Aide about October 1919. In December, 1919 I was one of six to be transferred to Fort Sheridan, Ill. May 27, 1920 I was transferred back again to Fort Sam Houston to become Chief Head Aide, where I remained until October, 1921, getting my discharge. Civilian life: From October, 1921 to November, 1922, I was associated with an orthopedic surgeon, Dr. R. McE. Schauffler, of Kansas City, Mo. On Jan. 1, 1923, I became Physio Therapist under Dr. J. C. Elson (formerly of the Army), at Wisconsin State General Hospital in Madison. During my two and a half year stay, I saw a small 60-bed hospital grow into the splendid six-story State Hospital. June, 1925 I retraced my steps back to San Antonio once more, but this time to take over my own office that had been established by Mary Callaghan, also a R. A. P. T. This venture was most satisfactory, but a new field opened in Madison, so in January, 1927 I returned to Madison to organize the Physio Therapy Department for the Crippled Children in the Madison, Wisconsin, schools. Wisconsin is doing wonderful things for the handicapped children. Our Department of Child Guidance is under the direction of Miss Pauline Camp, also an Army Aide. This brings me up to date, and this few minutes of reminiscence has stirred up vivid memories which I would be glad 'To Tell the World!'"

BRADLEY, ELEANOR C., O. T., Saybrook, Conn.

BRADLEY, HELEN, P. T., 5 W. 68th Terrace, Kansas City, Mo.

One unit which was formed in December of 1918 at the Hotel Albert started from New York on New Year's day. Their destination was Base Hospital, Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio. There were nine girls in the unit. Seven of them had trained at Reed College in Portland, Oregon: Olive Mathis, Laura Borwell, Marguerite Andrews, Emily Mills, Helen Bradley, Laura Plunkett, and Ella Hjertaas. Two had taken their work in the east—Jean Marshall at Sargeant and Rose Brandt in New Haven.

They were all very proud of the new uniforms, young, enthusiastic and happy. The war was over, but they still had a chance to serve. They had come from the North, South and Far West, but there was the tie of service unfulfilled and of patriotism.

Perhaps it was that exciting trip which bound them together so that their friendship is still a very beautiful thing. It was the beginning of one of those sudden storms of the Middle West. The thermometer dropped from sixty degrees above to below zero in a few hours. Traveling even on modern trains became punishment. Passengers "crabbed" about the cold and the food and lack of blankets. Trains were delayed.

But the Army girls were having too good a time to notice discomforts. They gathered the passengers around them as they drifted through their car and sang all the war songs from "Pack Up Your Troubles" to "Long, Long Trail." They even had the porter bring them tea and cut the huge home-made cake one of the girls donated, and everybody had a bite.

The passengers, enjoying the fun, took up a collection of pennies and nickels—one dollar and sixty-three cents, which the girls jealously treasured in the months to come. The train crew gave them a public vote of thanks for their cooperation in keeping the passengers contented.

In Chicago they stayed over night and went to see Laurette Taylor in "Happiness," and froze their faces on the way back to the Great Northern Hotel which was the only place where they could get rooms, or, rather, room! They put cots in one big room for them.

After they left Kansas City, the frozen pipes in their Pullman burst and soaked all their luggage, which was piled in the drawing room, but that was only an amusing incident. And then the sun grew warmer and their happiness keener until they arrived in San Antonio.

It was only after they got to the old Army post that the high pitch of their enthusiasm was dropped and then not for long. No one from the C. O. to the Chief Nurse had expected them. One good looking young lieutenant said he'd heard of them—that they taught the boys to make little baskets. And that idea was so fixed in the doctors' minds that they were most disappointed, and felt that these P. T. girls should at least try to do O. T. work. It was some time before the first of the O. T.'s arrived and the P. T.'s were awfully glad to see them and to help share the problems with which they were confronted.

The Chief Nurse didn't know what to do with them. The new barracks was not completed, and there was no room in the old quarters, so she put them in the basement, which they dubbed the "Crypt," and in an old class room. Soon the new barracks was ready and every girl there looks back with affection upon the dear little cubicle which was her very own, with its narrow white iron bed, its oak dresser, one chair, and the corner for hanging clothes with the shelf overhead, hooks underneath, curtained with unbleached muslin. The army locker went under the bed.

It wasn't a week until the rooms became home-like. These girls hadn't lived in college dormitories for nothing. Cretonnes, brasses from the Allen Street shops in New York where they had all spent more than they could afford, pictures of the brothers and sweethearts, in army uniform, and soon bowls of Texas blue bonnets and other wild flowers made each room a home. Chafing dishes and tea sets began to arrive from home along with boxes of "eats," and it was the usual thing for a party every night. It consisted of a sing and "chow." They were hungry all the time!

Fifty dollars then was as wonderful as one hundred fifty now. There were dinners at the old Mexican cafe where Lee, Grant and Davis had eaten, at the Menger and St. Anthony—big resort hotels, the Japanese Tea Garden, the old Southern Argyle, the French restaurant, and the Chinese restaurant. There were rides to the old Missions and Medina dam and New Braunfels resort.

Spring comes early down there and soon picnics on the spur of the moment were the order of the day—a request for an ambulance, gathering together a few simple things to eat and away to Breckenridge Park, a fire and soon gorgeous bacon and egg sandwiches, coffee, and toasted marshmallows. The smell of wood smoke, the old songs again, and then back home through the moonlight, listening to the mocking birds, and at last, Taps, too poignantly sweet in the warm southern night. These are the memories that linger—not the little difficulties that came and were happily met each time.

Plunkie's joyous "We can't be bothered" helped them over many a rough place. The unfailing patience and kindness of the officers in charge, and of the Chief Nurse made things much easier for the Aides whose greatest failing was their impetuosity.

Work was their keenest pleasure. To see the dear brave boys getting better under their care, the satisfaction of the growing department until there were sixty P. T.'s with "our Plunkie" Chief of them all, and Laura, Brandy, and Jean who were so clever, made Head Aides right from our unit. New machines and new methods arrived daily. Technics, now antiquated, had to be learned. Specialists in physio therapy were sent from Washington to take charge of the department. First Lieutenant Solmons, who opened the new clinic, and then nice Captain Carey who was as kind and enthusiastic as they could wish.

There was the difficult task of convincing the Medical Staff that they needed physio therapy. Perhaps the boys themselves helped most in this, for from the beginning, they were anxious for their treatments and loud in their praise of benefits received. Gunshot wounds healed, stiff joints loosened, and paralyzed muscles functioned again.

This history wouldn't be complete without mentioning some of the boys who became so dear to the Aides—mostly the G. S. W. cases from overseas. Andy and Sully and Reper, the "Sarg," Pat Boyle, little Lieutenant Thomas, handsome Jim Walton, Jimmy Ward and a host of others that all the Aides from Fort Sam Houston will remember—brave, joyous, and appreciative boys to whom each Aide's thoughts go back with pride to know that she had a share in those golden days.

All too soon came the call of the "civies" and the "Holy Nine" began to break up. The first ones to leave were discharged in July 1919 and then were weepy good-bye parties where each tried to seem cheerful.

Now, they are scattered east and west. Jean Marshall is teaching in a girls' school in Baltimore. Laura Borwell has charge of the P. T. Clinic in the Madison, Wisconsin Public Schools. Emily Mills is now Mrs. Jack Milroy of Virginia, Minn., and she and her husband are active in the American Legion. Rose Brandt is State Superintendent of Rural Education for Montana and has her Master's Degree from Columbia University, New York. Olive Mathis is also an M. A. and teaches in the Hollywood high school right next door to one of the big "lots." Marguerite Andrews teaches in Oregon. Helen Bradley was a P. T., in charge of the Clinic in the Veterans Hospital at Jefferson Barracks, but after a long illness, is at home. Laura Plunkett is now Mrs. Carl Fogh, and divides her time between California and Alaska where her husband has a salmon cannery. Since her discharge, Ella Hjertaas has been connected with the music faculty of her own Alma Mater, St. Olaf College, in Minnesota. BRADLEY, MARGARET, O. T., 101 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

CADWALADER, LOUISE, O. T., 3120 Eton Ave., Berkeley, Calif.

"Received appointment October 25, 1918, as Head Reconstruction Aide, O. T., assigned to Camp Sherman. Chief Head Aide, February 1, 1919. Supervisor of Reconstruction Aides, May 12, 1919. Transferred to Fort Des Moines, where the C. O. appointed me Supervisor of all aides at that post, O. T.'s and P. T.'s. There were about 90 aides. Because of the illness of my father, requested transfer, but my father died just as I received my orders, August 1, 1919, to go to Letterman Hospital, San Francisco. My mother and I decided to carry out our plan to join my brother's family in California.

"In October 1920, I was injured by a fall in one of the wards while on duty, but did not give up for nine months. July 18, 1921, was ordered on sick leave and was a patient at Letterman for three months. November 16, 1921, received a disability discharge and returned to my present home. From that time I have been up and down, five operations, months in the hospital at different periods, and still use a cane, so I am not able to take up the old work. However, I have not been a total invalid. My O. T. training has done me good service for I have practiced it on myself during these years, spending a great deal of time with crafts, especially weaving, and have tried at intervals to take up my designing, drawing and painting that I was doing before I entered service.

"I was one of the three organizers and one of six charter members of the California State O. T. Association, acting as secretary-treasurer, with duties as president added for three years."

In 1922, Louise Cadwalader designed our "recognition pin," which is still treasured by many, and at the last convention of the World War Reconstruction Aides it was voted that we continue to use the original design.

"Since 1921, have been in charge of O. T. Departments, with rating of Occupational Director and Chief Aide.

"As you see, with me, it has been 'a long lane without a turning'—that is, vocationally and not occupationally speaking, but from a standpoint of location, there have been many crooks and turns. When I have time to think about it, I wonder where the next turn will lead, but I feel sure that the O. T. sign post will point in the direction of another Vets' Hospital. I have been with the 'temperamental T. B.'s so long I should be lonely without them, no doubt. On my tombstone (if one should be erected in my memory) I expect the inscription to read something like this: 'Eunice M. Cates, Faithful Unto Death—A Re-Aide O. T.,' while, instead of the symbolic cross and crown, the angel will hold in one hand a leather pocket book, a reed tray or a pair of book ends, perhaps, in the other—'Form 1216.' Maybe once, in five or ten years, a disabled ex-service man in passing, will look and understand."

"I entered the Army as Re-Aide in April, 1919, and was stationed at Carlisle U. S. A. Hospital until September of that year, when I was transferred to the Walter Reed Hospital. I served there until the end of April 1921. Entering the Public Health Service, I was sent to Fox Hills Hospital, Staten Island, New York. This hospital, with the entire personnel, was taken over by the Veterans' Bureau a few months later and in the V. B. service, I was stationed, after Fox Hills, at Augusta, Ga., and Perryville, Md. I left the Government Service in March 1923, and since then have been Chief O. T. at the Granby Hospital and Sanitarium, Granby, Conn., and Director of O. T. at the Delaware State Hospital. I have recently resigned the latter position and am planning to spend a year studying, in preparation for special work."

CHAPDELAINE, EDNA LEA (Mrs. Henry N. Benoit), P. T., 165 Church St., Putnam, Conn.

"I was Division Officer and Matron for Yeowomen at the State Pier, New London, Conn.; after the Armistice, I was transferred to the Army as Head Aide in charge of the P. T. CHAPMAN, HELEN D. (Mrs. Cyrus Chapman), O. T., Box 305, Tomahawk, Wis.

"Taught English at Fort Sheridan, October 17, 1918 until November 24, 1920. Found my work very interesting, dealing as I did with the illiterates who proved to be very much in earnest in their efforts to learn how to read, write and speak our language. Now, we are living up here in an ideal spot in the north woods, bringing up three little American patriots of our own, Helen Marie, born January 12, 1921, Cyrus Richard, Jr., born March 22, 1926, and Sylvia Gene, born May 31, 1932."

On January 24, I reported at West Roxbury, Mass., Veterans' Bureau Hospital, and remained until May 24, when I came home with a nervous breakdown, and remained inactive until October 1, 1921. I then reported at the Speedway, Chicago, where I stayed until July 17, 1922. Resigned permanently from the service. Since that time, I have been at home, acting as heavy assistant housekeeper and family chauffeur. I play at my craft work now and then, filling an occasional order for batik and doing negligees for my bride friends. Travel seems to be my pet hobby and I have, fortunately, been able to indulge it somewhat, having spent one winter in Florida, three summers in the Rocky Mountains, two in Maine, and one in Europe, since leaving the service. At present teaching crafts at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind."

COOK, LURA (Mrs. Lura Gray), O. T., 375 Perkins St., Oakland, Calif.

COOK, MAUDE E. (Mrs. George W. Jones), P. T., R. D. 2, Newark, Del.

"Enlisted for service, August 1918. Left New York City with Unit 2, September 1918. Served with nurses at Camp Kerhuon, Brest, for ten days. Ordered to Chateauroux and from there to Base 8, Savenay. Served with Base 8 and Base 69 until April 1919. Transferred to Fort Ontario, N. Y., and when that closed, to Carlisle. Discharged, June 1920. Married to George W. Jones (August 24, 1922), a disabled veteran, patient at Carlisle, after serving two years more in Public Health hospitals at Fort McHenry and Buffalo.

"Early one Sunday morning, the second Unit left Hotel Albert and, while church bells were ringing, came to the old Hoboken wharf to go aboard the George Washington. Who remembers the 'drowning drill' (as the colored troops called it), that called us out so early to watch the gray water swish by, our eyes and ears alert for signal of danger. Then the days and days of making and wearing influenza masks. At last the sight of land—the long line of transports and destroyers coming into the harbor of Brest and our greeting by real brother U. S. doughboys.

"Herded in the big army trucks, with standing room only, we were driven up the road skirting the harbor and outside the city walls to Camp Kerhuon. We waited in the rain till mess was called and then we were assigned to a barracks. As we were quieting for sleep, a nurse appeared with a flashlight and told us to come away as they were expecting a convoy of 1000 men, and would need that barracks. Putting on shoes and coats, we snatched together the rest of our belongings and followed through muddy fields and over hedges in single file to another barracks where cots were made up with sheets and pillow cases, and best of all a sprig of holly on each pillow!

"Those girls who had no nursing experience volunteered to work with the French maids, systematizing mess halls, etc., while the rest of us acted as aides to the overworked nurses. We heated water for bathing over salmon cans with alcohol-soaked cotton for fuel. We turned and returned soiled pillow slips, washed towels and carried drinks for long days—dressed always in our rubber boots and rain clothes. We carried our canteens to bed with us to have warm water for bath and laundry next morning. Our spirits rose in proportion to our hardships and we were a happy unit of girls.

"After long day and night train rides where we took turns at napping we reached Chateauroux, and later on our own stations. Three of us went to Base 8, Savenay, where the work was started under Leah Thomas, a girl from my own school at New Haven. Here during the rush times we halted our work to help with plaster casts, secretarial work or anywhere the need was greatest, but for many weeks of long busy days we were working over cots in sometimes two or three wards.

"At Christmas time we helped to fill socks down in the village, Mairie, and Christmas Day, with the tree and carol singing in the court, and decorated wards, was almost jolly! One blind man said as he opened his sock and identified things by feeling and smell, 'The people who filled all these must think a lot of us,' so we read him the inscription, 'The gift of the American people through the Red Cross.'

"As springtime came in the air we began to long for home, and when they came, our transfers were quite welcome. At home again, we began to greet men who had come on ahead or who followed us; so the work went on and on."

COOLIDGE, ROSAMOND, O. T., 206 Belmont St., Watertown, Mass.

"Army service, February 1919 to October 1921, all at Walter Reed, and the most cherished period of my career. Since then, I have resumed my painting, mostly portraits in oil, and pastel drawings, having a studio in the Fennay Studios, Boston. If any of my good friends in the Army ever visit Boston, I hope they will get in touch with me there. Last year, I had an exhibition of paintings and drawings at the Twentieth Century Club, Boston. When I can, I send pictures to the large exhibitions in Washington, New York, etc. Recently, I just exhibited locally, in several neighboring towns and cities, as I have had other responsibilities and duties and can not give much more than half time to the painting."

A Toy Shop

(After Eugene Field)

The little war shop is covered with dust.
The shelves in a row are grey;
And the little toy dolls the wounded made
Have been broken and cast away.

Time was when the little toy shop was new.
And many an aide with joy,

Welcomed the soldier, as comrades do,
And asked him to make a toy.

Aye, faithful to dreams the little shop stands
Where Romance once bowed to hear
Doughboys, undaunted by scars of war,
Fill the room with cheer.

Oh we wonder, as watching the fleeting years
Through the mist of the dreams we know,
What has become of the wounded now,
In the dust of the World War's Glow.

EDDY, FRANCES HILDRETH (Mrs. Walter H. Eddy), O. T., 417 Riverside Drive, New York City.

"I was an O. T. in charge of the academic work—no hand work—at General Hospital 24, Parkview, Pa. I entered the service some time in March (I think) 1919, and resigned in July 1919 on the return of my husband, Major Eddy, from his eighteen months' service overseas as director of the Bureau of Food and Nutrition of the Sanitary Corps of the Medical Service. I was in the Surgeon General's office at Washington in this same bureau working as a file clerk and computer and did some special research. There I met Major Milner who was put in charge of the reconstruction work at Parkview. Knowing that teaching had been my profession, he asked me to take charge of and develop this work. I jumped at the chance and turned into an O. T. And what a mess it was! The 'highups' in this work at Washington had not the faintest idea whether you wore uniforms or whether you didn't; how you reported nor to whom. Of course the work was fascinating and the whole story a-never-to-be-forgotten experience, from my dear Italian who innocently asked me my age and when told, replied 'No look it—too old to work so hard,' to my treasured American bum who would get so very drunk so many times and who asked me why 'they' didn't send spry old ladies like me over seas instead of all 'them young sprouts.'

"What have I done since these days? Made a home again for my clever, famous husband who is internationally known for his work as an expert on vitamins, nutrition and such matters. Dr. Eddy is professor of Biological Chemistry at Columbia University; director of the Bureau of Foods, Sanitation and Health of the Good House-keeping magazine and consulting chemist for the United Fruit Co., National Canners Ass'n and other companies. We have been abroad several times and had the great pleasure in 1926 of taking Eleanor Baldwin—now Mrs. Roger Fenn—and her husband with us while we motored through the American battlefields. Mrs. Fenn was at Park-view also, and the youngest and oldest aides there, have kept up their close friendship begun in the O. T. work. It added to the tense interest of this trip that we had all been in service and brought us many a pleasant experience with the French peasants we met on the way. Mr. and Mrs. Fenn were spending the year in Paris and you can imagine how the veteran tongues compared experiences. For actual work for myself—four to six hours at the piano each day do not leave much time for me to get into mischief. I think so often of that old, square piano given to the hospital and put up into the Dakin ward; of the general trash that the boys loved to have me play when I had some spare time when some unfortunate had had another operation or was too sick to be trained to speak or write English or fuss with fractions—of the pedals that wouldn't work until I had crawled under the piano with my mouth filled with well-chewed paper and glued the pedal supports in again for some twenty minutes or so—of the time I was on my hands and knees under the piano doing this when my superior officer came in and asked for me—of the good music I slipped in when the boys didn't know it and which they loved because they hadn't been frightened by its name."

Savenay, France, Camp Lee, Fort McHenry, Oteen, Whipple Barracks, and Sunmount, N. Y. FULLER, IVY ANN, P. T., 35 Delaware Court, 1001 N. Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

"My first service was at the War Nurses' Training Camp, organized by the Army Nurse Corps and Vassar College and held at Vassar College. After the three months there, we were parcelled out and sent in groups to many hospitals who had agreed to credit graduates of the course with one year of training. I was sent to Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York. I had wanted army service, so in February 1919, I resigned and went to Washington where I enlisted, serving at Walter Reed until discharged June 1920. There followed a summer with the Radcliffe Chautauqua and an ill-fated theatrical venture in Washington. After activities in the local post of the American Legion in my home town of Manhattan, Kan., culminating in participating in the Kansas City National Convention as a delegate, came on to American Legion National Headquarters in Indianapolis in February of 1922, where I learned of my ineligibility for membership. It was quite a blow, but I was urged to stay on until something developed for me to do. Almost at once I stepped into a vacancy in the Home Economics Dept. of Emerich Manual Training High School, which position I still hold."

Taps and Reveille

(To an Aide who died of influenza)
Waiting for sleep in the silent night—
A bugle sounded near.

I knew by its sad and solemn voice
 That Taps was the order clear.
 "The day is over," the bugle said,
 "Is your daily work well done?
 Have you met each duty small or great
 Did you cheerfully do each one?"
 I slept and woke at break of dawn—
 The bugle called again;
 'Twas not in tones of ended day,—
 But Reveille called to men.
 It said, "Arise! The day has come.
 Awake, each heart and hand!
 Take hold anew of life's great task
 The sun shines o'er the land."
 Taps is the bugle call by night,
 Reveille greets the morn,
 When after sleep, we wake to find
 New strength is freely born.
 Thus with the soul of the Aide we love—
 She heard Taps sound on earth—
 Yet, with the dawn of Heaven's day,
 Her Reveille sounds new birth.

HATCH, ALICE, O. T., 48 Dodge St., Beverly, Mass.

"I was at Walter Reed from March of 1919 through December of 1922, when I left to come here to teach. I was assigned to teach shorthand and typewriting, but was soon loaned to the Social Service Department. After Louise Hoyle came and the Social Service was put on a more organized basis, I received a definite appointment as secretary. From a very small beginning, the Medical Social Service grew until we soon had nine aides in the department, with two others, Anita Conte and Sara Bassewich, assigned for part-time work among the non-English-speaking patients.

"That was at the time when the hospital personnel was counted off in big numbers: patients, 2600; officers and enlisted men, 800 or more; student nurses, 400; (I never did know the number of graduate nurses); O. T. aides, including the Social Service group, over 100—remember how we used to line up for inspection, three rows deep, in old Building 95?—and there were somewhere between 50 and 100 P. T. aides. Remember, too, how the boys referred to the Reconstruction Department as being 'back in the Argonne'? But the 'Argonne' was cut down, and other changes came, and they have kept coming until, when I was back visiting in 1930, even the 90's were being torn down."

Ethel Hays' cartoons glorified the American Flapper. Aleen Sumner, an NEA service writer, gives us the following information about her fellow worker: "Teaching art to wounded soldiers during the war started Ethel on the road to success. She began her art career at the Los Angeles School of Art and Design. She then studied for three years at the Art League, New York. When the war came, she dropped the paint brushes, and enrolled in the Red Cross, passed her examinations, obtained her passports, and was all set for Europe. While home to tell her folks good-bye, she saw a newspaper plea for art instructors in Government Hospitals. She then began her three years work as aide to Uncle Sam. They called these girls who taught Veterans how to draw, and who made funny cartoon posters, 'Uncle Sam's Chuckle Girls.'

"Meanwhile, she took a correspondence course in drawing. The director of this school showed some of her drawings to the editor of the Cleveland Press. At the end of her war work, she began work with the Press. She and a girl reporter did a picture feature stunt a day. They interviewed and 'drew' every celebrity who came to town. NEA Service realized that here was something more than a local stunt. Today, Ethel's pictures of 'Flapper Fanny' and her gorgeous Sunday magazine pages are seen by millions of people. Ethel was right in the midst of her syndicate work when she was married. She had a honeymoon, furnished a flat, later on moved and furnished a house, had a baby, built and decorated a studio, and never missed a day with her drawing. She says: 'It is just a matter of doing the job for which one is fitted.'"

HITCHCOCK, LENA, O. T., 1755 N St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

"Took Oath of Office, S. G. O., March 2, 1918.

Owing to change of regulations regarding Aides, was—with all others appointed up to that time—re-sworn in at Walter Reed Hospital, May 19, 1918. Was on duty at Walter Reed from March 2, 1918 until June 20, 1918. I was the fourth person sworn in for Re-Aide Service, O. T. Those preceding me were Mrs. Helen T. Smith, Elizabeth Barnes and Alice Brice. Julia Brice and I were sworn in the same day. Lydia Bush-Brown, Katharine Semple, Cornelia Williams, Susan W. Hiels, Angela Vedder, Jennie Turner, Ruth Tanner and others soon followed. Mary McMillan, P. T., was on duty before any of us at Walter Reed.

"We worked under great difficulties—teaching one another Crafts. Marguerite Sanderson was Supervisor in S. G. O. At first we had no uniforms, then we were given the hideous dark blue dresses. Katharine Semple suggested the apron which was accepted. I invented the cap from a dark blue Red Cross veil of my mother's and a linen handkerchief of one of the men of my family. I wore it to the hospital. All—there were only about nine or ten of us at the time—liked it and it was accepted. With these dresses we wore stiff starched white collars and cuffs, white shoes and stockings.

"Mrs. Smith, Head Aide, did not think K. Semple's apron attractive, as we did, so invented one of her own which Head Aides were to wear to differentiate them from the common or garden Aides; she also decided to wear an all white cap. (The apron is the present apron.)

"We were allowed to order street uniforms consisting of dark blue cape lined with maroon, jacket and skirt, worn with caduceus, black straw hat with cockade of maroon and white, dark blue crepe de chine shirt with white collars and cuffs for dress—three white madras shirts for every day.

"June 13, 1918, the first group of O. T.s was ordered overseas, Susan Hiels as Head Aide. She did not like our apron, so decreed that we should change them to that worn by Head Aides. This was inconvenient for most of us, but by this time we were used to changing on a moment's notice. In the meantime, several of us, on the grounds that the dark blue hospital uniforms were depressing, succeeded in getting them changed to the present light blue chambray.

"On June 20, 1918, four of us left Walter Reed for New York—Susan Hiels who had studied under Dr. Goldthwaite in Boston, Lydia Bush-Brown, O. T., Clemence Bourbon, P. T., a French woman from Lyons, France, and myself. Arrived in New York, we reported at the Holley Hotel. The next day, were transferred to the Nurses Mobilization Headquarters. There we were joined by the following Aides: O. T.s—Amy Baker, Martha Crocker, Marjorie Conant, Hope Gray, Clara Greenwood, and Daphne Dunbar, Boston School; Ruth Harris, Virginia Fox, and Louise Green, Mrs. Mansfields' School; and Elizabeth Melcer, Columbia School. P. T.s—Dora Anderson, Bertha D. Beckwith, Marion Bently, Margaret Blake, Mia Donner (English), Emma Hamilton (Scotch), Mary Holton, Emma Lavers, Eva McLean, Gretchen Noeller, Olga Pressentin, Leah Thomas and Muriel Vail. There were 27 in all—14 P. T.s, and 13 O. T.s—all under Miss Hiels.

"We stayed in New York drilling in the Armory and under strict military supervision—also marching in the Fourth of July parade up Fifth Avenue. July 30th, we sailed for Liverpool, England, on the Walmer Castle in the largest convoy which up to that time had left the U. S. With us on board were the nurses of Base 14, and Headquarters Co. of the 81st Division, Major-General C. J. Bailey, commanding, as well as two companies of the 81st—or Wild Cat Division. After nearly two weeks at sea and the experience of a submarine attack (which proved futile), we landed in Liverpool, crossed to Southampton, were put on a British Hospital Boat and crossed to La Harve, landing in France August 11, 1918, the first group of O. T.s to cross in Army Service—a group had been taken over earlier, but were with an independent Unit, serving, I believe, in the north of France. This group was afterward inducted into the Army Service.

"We were sent to Base 9, Chateauroux, where we were not at first wanted. We found several P. T.s there—members of Louisa C. Lippitt's group, which had preceded us—Miss Voorhees, Head Aide, P. T. At first we did nothing but Nurses Aide duty, gradually working in as O. T.s, salvaging tin, wood (cigar boxes), old linen (which we dyed), and other materials from the dump heap. Our community box containing tools and materials had disappeared in transit. I had taken wood tools, leather tools, nut picks, and a small bead and bed loom in my trunk. These tools we copied in the blacksmith shop, begged others from the Engineers and Aviation Camp nearby, and out of our own pockets bought the necessary things and materials.

"We never received any money for materials from the Government the entire time my group worked overseas, yet the work, turned out in spite of obstacles, was of a very high order, and on the strength of the good achieved by this small group of O. T.s, curatively and by way of morale—after an inspection by the Chief Surgeon of the A. E. F., General Ireland, Dr. Goldthwaite was permitted to cable home for additional Aides. This last was publicly stated by Dr. Goldthwaite in a speech made to the Graduating Class of the Boston School of O. T., 1921.

"In September, Dr. Goldthwaite, who was in charge of Orthopedic Surgery in France, came down to the Hospital, and we were divided into small groups. The first to leave were the Misses Bourbon, Pressentin, Lavers, and Beckwith, P. T.s. Of the O. T.s, seven went to Base 114, Beau Desert, near Bordeaux. These were Ruth Harris, Head Aide, Lydia Bush-Brown, Amy Baker, Virginia Fox, Marjorie Conant, Martha Crocker and Clara Greenwood. Those of us who remained at Base 9, in addition to Nurses Aide and our own jobs, superintended the making of surgical dressings which were cut out with our help by the unit nurses and folded by the wounded men. Many convoys came in and there was little time to rest or play, but we were busy and contented.

"We were joined in November 1918 by another group, and were again divided—Louise Green and Daphne Dunbar taking a group of new Aides to Base 8, Savenay in Brittany, Louise Green as Head Aide. We gained three new Aides—Virginia Litchfield, Lois Wilder and Hannah Thompson. There we all stayed until we with the patients were evacuated from Base 9 to the Hospital Center, Savenay, February 5, 1919; left there February 19, 1919, for Base 114, Beau Desert, Bordeaux. Ordered home May 11, 1919.

"Reported for duty at Walter Reed, June 4, 1919, to find many changes and additions which were bewildering to one who had participated in the first struggle to establish the work there and later in France. Was put in charge of Curative Work in woodshop.

"September 29, 1919, was promoted to Head Aide. In February, applied for discharge, and received it February 29, 1920."

LANDERS, ASENATH (Mrs. Jesse J. Murphy), O. T., Box 565, R. F. D. 3, Woodhaven Way, Oakland, Calif.

"Was supervising Arts and Crafts in the public schools of Waterbury, Conn., when notice came to proceed without delay to Camp Dix. Arrived February 8, 1919. Only a few aides on duty. We lived in rough wooden barracks, two girls to a tiny room. Mrs. Katherine Lewis was my first room mate; when she went home, Betty Taylor moved in. This hospital was discontinued the end of June. Mary Louise Edwards (Eddie) and myself were transferred to a T. B. Hospital at New Haven. There were too many of us there. After about three weeks, was transferred to Fort McPherson. Eddie followed me there a few weeks later. Lived off the Post. Southern ways were very new to me. Worked in the Officers' Ward and sick nurses' wards, mornings, and had colored nuts in the afternoons. Moved to the Post into the Aides' Quarters after about two weeks. Gracia Loehl and I roomed together.

"Had a wonderful time at Fort McPherson—Lieut. Murphy was one of my patients. We were married on February 6, 1920, as he was discharged then. I wired for my discharge—it arrived on my wedding day. We were married in the Chapel by Army Chaplain Randolph. Gracia Loehl was my bridesmaid and Lieut. Hook, best man. We started immediately for California where my husband was to take up his pre-war employment. We settled in Oakland and have lived here ever since. Have our own home—a five-room Spanish bungalow up in the hills back of the city.

"The second year of my married life I started working as an O. T. Aide in the Marine Hospital in San Francisco—across the bay from Oakland. Was there a little over two years.

"On March 1, 1924, our first son, Stanley Bascum, was born. Our second son, Jesse Emmet, was born August 15, 1929."

Blanche M. Lauck

LAUCK, BLANCHE M., O. T., 4629 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

"I was not in hospital work during the War; but I had my Army number (32734) in the Chemical Warfare Service, and was an inspector in a Gas Defense plant in Long Island City. The factory closed the last of January, 1919, and in March I received orders to report at Camp Travis. I reached there March 20th. Three weeks later our work was demobilized at Camp Travis and the aides sent to several other posts. A truck full of us were taken to Ft. Sam Houston a drive of about ten minutes. I was there till the last of February, 1920. Transferred from Army to Public Health Service, I was ordered to Hospital 14, New Orleans, where I remained from April 1920 to June 1921. It was there I made the valued friendship of Stella Hicks (Mrs. C. G. Farnsworth) who was Head Aide, and later became Chief. Transferred to Oteen, I served there from June 1 to September 1, 1921, on which date my resignation took effect.

"Before leaving New Orleans I had taken a run over to San Antonio, to say a last good-bye to our endeared tramping ground around Ft. Sam Houston, and from there to the town of Mission on the Mexican border, for a few days with Dorothea Hoit (Mrs. Solenberger) who had married an aviator from Kelly Field, and was living about a mile out of Mission on a most attractive little ranch. While there I decided to buy a five acre plot of land next to Dorothea's home. The land was cleared; fronted on the military road to Mexico; had a fig orchard of forty trees, bearing well; eight large pecan trees; and one wide-spreading ebony tree. It was my intention to retire there within several years, and cultivate a citrus fruit orchard. With this in view I contracted for the required number of young trees from a nursery. Dorothea and I were all enthused over the wonderful plans we hoped to develop.

"Now, soon after I reached Oteen I had several letters from Louise Everhardy, urging me to go to Supply, Oklahoma, to establish an O. T. Department in a state psychopathic hospital. Louise offered to go and open a shop if I would agree to follow and carry on, and this she did.

"Ten months in Oklahoma, and I could not endure the isolation longer. Reinstated in the Service, I arrived at Whipple Barracks July 11, 1922. In late December of the same year I received notice to stop payments on my property, as a complication had arisen following a recent death, and I was faced with the imminent loss of my choice plot of land. Again leaving the Service I went to San Antonio, where the executors of the estate including my plot were located, with a hope of saving the property; but was unsuccessful, and only recently, after years, have I been reimbursed to the amount I had paid on it. Again the Bureau was considerate enough to reinstate me, and for two and a half years—June 1923 to January 1926—I served at Legion, Texas. Also, while at Legion, my little book of verses was published. A much needed rest of somewhat more than a year, then my purse demanding a job, I opened a craft department in a state school for the feeble minded in Austin, Texas. We had three large looms, and I succeeded in persuading them to install a pottery kiln. We specialized in pottery, weaving, and basketry; and did a little toy making, tapestry, and other of the lighter crafts. At the end of a year and a half among the feeble minded my nerves were quite exhausted, and I have since been resting, yet am always busy at something congenial."

LEE, IVA (Mrs. B. E. Crismon), Asst. Chief Aide, P. T. Dept., U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Alexandria, Louisiana.

"I entered service September 7, 1918 at Amsterdam, N Y. I was assigned to overseas duty; sailed from New York October 6, 1918. Served at Mesves Center, France. This was one of the largest Base Hospital Centers in France. Returned to the States in May 1919. I was assigned to duty at Fox Hills, and remained there until about November when I was sent to Fort McHenry. Served at this station until it closed, when I was transferred to Walter Reed. I was discharged from the army at Walter Reed Hospital December 31, 1920. I entered the Public Health Service January 1921 and when the Veterans' Bureau was established I was automatically transferred to that service at Camp Logan, Houston, Tex. I have been with the following posts in the Veterans' Bureau: Dallas, Texas, Muskogee, Okla., and Algiers, La. I was married September 18, 1922 to B. E. Crismon. My hobby, if it can be called such, is to develop a modern poultry and small fruit ranch in the beautiful Ozark Mountains, in Arkansas. I have named it My-notion Farm."

"In January 1917 I enrolled for training in the American Red Cross, at its training center in Chicago, Illinois for a course then called 'Bed-side Occupations.' At the end of six months of theoretical and practical training, with fifteen others in the group, we were ready, and I very well remember on August 10th receiving the following telegram: 'Will you accept appointment Reconstruction Aide, Occupational Therapy, Neuropsychiatric Unit, Medical Department, U. S. A., Overseas Service. Signed, W. C. Gorgas.'

"First duty station, Ft. Porter, New York. Left home in obedience to orders, October 8, 1918. January 10, 1919 left this hospital for Camp Pike. Designated 'Head Reconstruction Aide, effective this day, January sixth.' Reported to Camp Pike, January 10, 1919.

"The next entry of note 'with the approval of the Secretary of War, the within named Reconstruction Aide is hereby relieved from duty in the Medical Department effective April 28, 1919.' On May 28, 1919 the record reads 'I certify that bronze victory button has been issued.' Here ended the actual Army service of one Geraldine R. Lermitt, but already I had entered upon the service of the U. S. Public Health Bureau, at Hospital 4, 47th and Drexel Blvd., Chicago, Illinois. My appointment was made by the American Red Cross and was followed shortly by appointment from Washington as Chief Aide, and shortly thereafter, I became a Civil Service employee under the U. S. Public Health Service. Just when I shifted to be an employee of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, I cannot recall, but I remained at 4, or as it was by that time known as 30, until September 1921 when a transfer removed me as Chief Aide to U. S. Veterans' Hospital 30, St. Louis. Feeling quite sure that I would not 'stay put' in Missouri, I left Chicago with every intention of resigning in six months and returning home,—and here I am still in St. Louis in the year 1931, tho not in Government service. I resigned in June 1922, to take the position of Director of the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy and the St. Louis Training School of Occupational Therapy.

"The story of the last nine years can be told in brief; I am still here, which indicates that I am happy and have enough occupation—and I believe that all of us who are here qualify likewise. As the slogan of one of our oldest laundries in the city is 'slow and careful,' so are we, doing our bit to furnish to that part of the public which needs it, the best brand of the medical-social profession known as Occupational Therapy."

"At the time of the entrance of America into the war I was an assistant professor and director of the Corrective Department for Girls at the University of Wisconsin. In March 1918 I was appointed to a position in the office at headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington, D. C.

"Later in that month, by the request of the Surgeon General of the U. S. Army, I was released from that position and from all Red Cross duty during the war. April 1, 1918 I took my oath of office to serve in the Physio-therapy department, and was ordered for temporary duty to Walter Reed Hospital. April 19 was ordered to the Nurses' Mobilization Station, Holley Hotel, New York City. May 16 appointed head aide to a unit of twenty-four aides, and assigned to the unit of Base Hospital 114. June 5, left New York for France.

"Was stationed at Base 6, near Bordeaux June 22 to August 3. August 3 to January 1919, stationed at Base 114, also near Bordeaux. In January was ordered to return to the U. S. On my arrival in New York was ordered (February 22) to Parker Hill, for temporary duty as lecturer in the Harvard School for Physio-therapy Aides, conducted by Col. Robert Lovett. March 27, 1919 reported to U. S. General Hospital 36, Detroit, Mich., to organize a department of Physio-therapy, and was made Chief Head Aide. Received my discharge in Washington, D. C., June 7, 1919, and in September 1919 resumed my position at the University of Wisconsin.

"I resigned from the University of Wisconsin in 1922, because of ill health resulting from an illness contracted during my service in France. Later, became the director of Physio-therapy at the Children's Hospital in Washington, D. C., lecturer during the summer session at the University of Wisconsin, and have a private practice in Washington, D. C. I have published two books, one on personal hygiene, published while I was in France, the other on corrective gymnastics written and published since my return.

"The following are the Reconstruction Aides of the first Unit for foreign service: Louisa C. Lippitt, Head of the Unit; Juliet O. Bell, Matilda Beniman, Bertha Bowles, Florence Burrell, Minerva Crowell, Dorothea Davis (Mrs. C. D. Curtiss), Ruth M. Earl, Jane I. Feinman (Mrs.

LOCKE, FRANCES LAFAYE, O. T., U. S. V. Hospital, Fort Lyon, Colo.

"One day in September 1918 a friend gave me a book entitled War Work for Women. Among other things that were given was teaching hand crafts to the convalescent soldiers in France. I was a Supervisor of Public School Drawing and teaching crafts as industrial work during part of the school term so I felt that I could surely do that well. I at once volunteered for overseas duty but I had influenza by the time that the papers came back and was not able to go. While on leave during the Christmas holidays the Department wrote me to know if I would accept duty in the hospitals here and I was sent to Camp Travis, January 15, 1919. Mary Maude Jones, Head Aide, Bess Louise Davis and Berta Frey were the O. T.s there when I arrived. Mary Virginia Moore and Elizabeth Mills came next. Soon after Edith Hobbs, Ann Campbell, Elizabeth Sharp, Myrtle Coons, Sophia Rau, Natalie Neville, and others joined us. We lived in a long dormitory and none of us got much sleep. There was always some one coming in and we all got up to listen to their experiences. Miss Jones loaned us the blue dress, collars, and cuffs and a cap as we had no uniforms to start with. It was an adventure. We never thought that getting up before daylight in a cold room, your shoes so damp that they were hard to get on, and poor food were hardships. San Antonio with its famous old Missions and other places of historic interest gave us some places to go continually. We had dances at the Little Red Cross Hut and down in Camp, dinners at the hotels and picnics in Breckenridge Park.

"The Department was closed about April and I was transferred to Camp Lee. Margaret Grant, Aurelia Merryman and Mary Dempsey, P. T., were sent there about the same time. Petersburg was lovely—the dogwood was blooming and the woods were full of wild honeysuckle. The old Alexander Hamilton home, used as an Officers' Club, had a charming garden and we went there for dances and dinner often. Mrs. Martha King was Head Aide and Clara Leete, Mildred Orr Beaton, Elizabeth Warren, Louise Stoddard, Nora Ward and Eleanor Abrams were some of the other O. T.s. Just before the Reconstruction Dept. was transferred, Mary Beeler, Marion Tull, Mary H. Smith, P. T. Bess Louise Davis and others were sent there.

"In June, Margaret Grant, Nora Ward and I were sent to Oteen. I was so much underweight and tired out that I feared to say in a tuberculosis hospital and asked for transfer or discharge. I received my discharge July 19, 1919. I was ill for several months. In December 1919, I reentered Public Health Service, at 35, St. Louis, Mo. April 15, 1921, I was sent as Head Aide in charge of O. T. to Knoxville, Iowa. I went to Washington while on leave and asked for a transfer and was sent as Asst. Chief to P. H. Hospital, Perryville, Md. April 1, 1922 I was transferred to Oteen, N. C. and on requesting a transfer was sent May 4, 1922 to V. B. Hospital, Helena, Montana, in charge of the department as Occupational Director. I received my rating as Chief Aide June 1925. January 25, 1926, I was transferred to U. S. V. Hospital, Alexandria, La., as C. A. and Occupational Director. When the personnel were transferred during the time that the hospital was being rebuilt May 18, 1928, I went to U. S. V. H., Algiers, La., with my same rating. Later, transferred to present station."

Fort Sheridan, 1919-20.

LOEHL, GRACIA (Mrs. Gerald J. Maloney), O. T., St. Peter, Minn.

"My first orders were for overseas service, and I left my position in the War Risk Insurance Department, Washington, D. C., jubilant with the idea of going to France. I landed at the Hotel Albert in November 1918; after a month's stay, was ordered to Camp Devens. Remained for six months—transferred to Fort McPherson. My next transfer was to Fort Sam Houston. In the spring of 1921, I received my discharge. After a vacation at home in Minnesota, I accepted a position with the Public Health, at Knoxville, Iowa; remained until December 1921. I then decided I wanted to be nearer home, and for about three years was director of O. T. at Glen Lake Sanatorium, a T. B. institution near Minneapolis. The ill health of my parents caused me to give up my work in 1924, and I remained at home until after their death, in 1926.

"I was married on Christmas Eve, 1926, to Gerald J. Maloney, a former patient at Camp Devens, Mass. For the past year and seven months, I have been the treasurer for the World War Reconstruction Aides Association."

St., Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Fitzsimons, January 27, 1919 to January 1, 1921. Since that time have lived at the above address."

Elizabeth Mason was a member of the craft corps of Boutwells Art and Handicraft shop in Denver before service. After service, she took her mother and father to Santa Barbara, secured a position with the Santa Barbara Building and Loan Association, and acquired property on which she built a home for herself and her parents, planning from the beginning where her studio would be built. Always, she was doing modelling along with her major activities. At Fitzsimons she did some exquisite carved ivory, so fine that she wore a jeweler's spy glass to do it.

The miniature Indian groups which she has modelled for the Santa Barbara Museum and the Southwest Museum represent two periods of California Indian civilization: the Live Oak and the Warrior Race. She first became interested in the ancient peoples when the skull of "The Santa Barbara Man" was uncovered at Burton Mound, and her own work was done after days and days of watching the excavating.

McLAGAN, EVA (Mrs. Burrell B. Mink), P. T., Drain, Ore.

"On October 6, 1918, our convoy of fourteen vessels left New York harbor for overseas, via Liverpool and South Hampton. Landed in La Harve eleven days later, and with thirty other aides was stationed at Base 9, Chateauroux, about one hundred miles south of Paris. Was transferred to Brest about January 1, 1919; later to Angers. Then followed leave to the battle front around Verdun, and other points.

The work of salvaging was not yet complete, and to unaccustomed eyes, the desolation was almost unbelievable. Where graveyards had been blown up by explosives, human bones, partly clothed in some instances, were lying about, and the earth pock-marked by a mass of deep shell holes. Heaps of barbed-wire entanglements, wrecked tanks, piles of scrapped war machinery were in evidence, and as we followed along the line of advance, piles of bricks marked the places where houses had been

"A month's sick-leave spent in southern France, at the Nurses' Convalescent Home, near Nice, leaves memories of never-to-be-forgotten sunny southern France. No sea so blue as the Mediterranean. Sailed from Brest on the 'Cap Finisterre,' on May 5, 1919, bound for the Statue of Liberty and New York skyline.

"Stationed at Cape May, Fort Sheridan and Fitzsimons. Left the service June 16, 1920. Resumed work at Oregon State College, graduated June 1921. MEARS, FRANCES S. (Mrs. Buster Estes), O. T., Moose P. O., Jackson Hole, Wyo.

"June 1919, after an intensive course at Philadelphia School for O. T. (we received our diplomas after 6 weeks of actual work), I was sent to Parker Hill. Two weeks after I arrived the entire personnel with a few exceptions went to Plattsburg. My buddy, Norma Barton (O. T.) lived there and she and her family were wonderful to the Aides. Plattsburg was evacuated in early September. Three or four of us were sent to Newport News, Va. I remained there until December when I received my discharge. Did some O. T. work in Philadelphia during that winter; also some typing for the Draft Board. Visited Fox Hills January 1920; there attended a Plattsburg Reunion—Aides and patients.

"Was married March 26, 1921. Have one child—Frances Martha, eleven years old. My husband was overseas fourteen months. He is a resident of Wyoming. MYRES, CLYDE McDOWELL, MRS., O. T., Guerneville, Calif.

"In March 1918 I found myself, with a small group of reconstruction aides, in hurried preparation for sailing orders. We were part of the plans of Colonel Salmon, Chief of the Neuro-psychiatric work with the A. E. F. We took with us all the temporary equipment we could manage. My own precious tools went in. The carpenter took her kit. The college art teacher packed her paints and brushes. Money and credit were given us by the National Committee on Mental Hygiene, and at the five-and-ten-cent stores we stretched this fund to the limit—hammers, saws, pliers, etc.; elsewhere we bought miniature hand-looms, yarns, dyes, etc. To some of our fellow-travellers we, the unclassified, may have seemed a little 'cobwebby in the ceiling,' as the French would say. We were nondescripts. We were pioneers going out with hardly the military status of scrub-women.

"Voyaging finally brought us to a valley in the Vosges Mountains. We were stationed at Base 117, LaFouche, about fifteen miles from Chaumont, General Pershing's headquarters. The country was beautiful, but the interminable passing of camions and troops, and the stark board barracks in the foreground, brought us sharply to out time and task. To us came the men with functional neuroses which showed in tremors, facial tics, strange twistings of the head and body, partial paralysis, deafness, dumbness, stuttering, extreme depression, etc.

"Our orders were to open a work-shop at once. After a hasty settling in the crowded but attractive old hunting lodge which was to be the home of the women of the unit, to the work-shop we went. It was a barrack, twenty by a hundred feet, cracks in the floor, cracks in the wall, door off the hinges, windows flopping, dust flying everywhere. At one end the hospital carpenter was already installed. Here, also, at certain hours of the day, the hospital barber performed. At the other end the Red Cross Supervisor of Gardens—as we afterward learned, the famous artist Tanner—kept his tools under padlock and key. These were curative instruments, not just spades and rakes and hoes.

"To us was assigned the center space. Here our boxes of temporary equipment were stacked. No benches, no work-tables—a Quartermaster who demanded formal requisition for every box, nail, or tin can that we had begun to gather up on sight. There were no military strings tied to the water-faucets. We could at least live up to our status of scrub-women without fear of a summary court-martial. Up to the time of our arrival, there had been no women in the hospital. This little group of women seizing promptly upon mop and broom attracted the curious; soon we were surrounded with khaki-clad soldiers. Holding our increasing audience, we began to open the boxes of equipment. Interested patients helped.

"The Quartermaster loaned us saw-horses, planks, and mess-tables—though he might send for them the next day. Some old French hospital beds ('Kangaroo beds' they were called—oblong boxes on four broad legs, the two at the head longer than those at the foot) appeared overnight in our shop. Hammer and nails and boards spliced the short legs; and behold, we had fine, level work-benches. Boxes served as seats. Back went the saw-horses and mess-tables—the men had helped us to outwit the Quartermaster.

"Utilizing two large tin-cans, a little old rusty grate found in a deserted blacksmith shop, and salvaged bricks, we soon had a charcoal furnace for the heating of our soldering irons. From tin-cans, we made drain pipes and lined three huge six-foot tubs for dishwashing built by the patients; fashioned funnels, strainers, biscuit and doughnut cutters, and soap dishes. The eyes of the harassed Commanding Officer grew almost human. The kitchen sink had won him.

"Furniture was needed everywhere. For the doctors rough boxes were serving for chairs and desks. Wards were barren of everything but beds: no bedside or ward tables, chairs or stools. The carpenter found more volunteers than she could well manage. Orders came from every corner. The doctors, as well as the Commanding Officer, began to look upon the work-shop with a kindly eye—kindly or calculating.

"Before long we were faced with a calamity. Our temporary equipment, carefully hoarded and supplemented by all possible ingenuity, was coming to an end. No equipment was forthcoming. Then one day a long, lank Red Cross man appeared, and asked what he could do to help. Undismayed, he carefully noted a long list of our needs, ending with the suggestion of a whole new building. In an incredibly short time, he returned, laden, and, best of all, with the promise of that new building!

"The new building was ready in a few weeks, clean and bright. The work went on. During that September and October, the men poured in from the front. They lined up at the door of the work-shop every morning before opening hour. The work attracted buyers, a boon to men who had sometimes been for months without receipt of pay. A new recreation hut, built by the Red Cross, brought interesting tasks to the shop. At Christmas time, long after the armistice, the merry hive was agog with the making of decorations for the huge Christmas tree given for the soldiers and for the French children of the neighborhood.

"In the leisure of the passage home, when the Vosges Mountains, the military barracks, the crowded shop of noisy men intent at the kangaroo-bed benches had all settled into memory, I realized that we had had a great adventure.

"In the summer of 1919, I was appointed by the National Committee for Mental Hygiene to go to Panama to organize O. T. in the Corozal Hospital. In January 1920, after returning to New York City, as Secretary of Vocational Training for the N. Y. T. B. Association, I was sent to Washington, D. C., to try to get a few thousand dollars for establishing work in sanatoria where there were T. B. ex-service men. The work was planned as preliminary training for the men who later wished to take up profitable work in the Reco Mfg. Co. I organized work in several sanatoria, in the vicinity of New York City and Connecticut, and in settlement houses for the families of T. B. patients.

"I returned to my own state, Texas, in 1924. I am now in the country, writing."

A letter written by Dr. Frankwood E. Williams, Associate Medical Director of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene is important to the history of the World War Reconstruction Aides. We quote: "At the time Base Hospital 117 sailed, there were no such workers as reconstruction aides in the army. As the position of occupational therapy worker or reconstruction aide (the term at that time had not been coined) was not then provided for in the official tables of organization, Mrs. Myres and her assistants were taken into the organization of Base Hospital 117 as civilian employees. The efforts of those who knew of the need for occupational therapy in hospitals, to have positions created for such workers in official tables of organization, were continued at Washington after the sailing of Base Hospital 117, but without success. The success in convincing the officials in the office of the Surgeon General in Washington came, when, as a result of the successful demonstration made by Mrs. Myres and her assistants at Base Hospital 117 in France, General Pershing cabled the Surgeon General, stating that these workers were exceedingly valuable and that a certain large number should be sent as soon as possible. By that time the term reconstruction aide had come into use, and a section of reconstruction aides was then organized in the division of reconstruction in the office of the Surgeon General. From this it will be seen that Mrs. Myres and her assistants were, in a sense, reconstruction aides before officially there were such workers in the army, and that it was by their pioneer work and the great success of that work that such workers became officially possible in the army."

"New Haven, March to August 1919. Walter Reed, August 1919 to February 1920. Married February 1920 to Charles Lotreck, a patient at Walter Reed. Children: Richard, born January 1921, Phyllis, born July 1922, Theodore, born March 1924, and Robert, born April 1925. My husband's disability has increased faster than his compensation, so a year ago (1927) we came back to Northampton, my old home, and I have since that time worked in the Veterans' Hospital here as stenographer. The work is most interesting, and as I never was more than mildly excited over housework, I have enjoyed the change. My hobbies are not those which would, perhaps, interest aides. I sing in church on Sundays, and indulge in various other musical activities. In what spare time is left, I make horoscopes for my friends, 'clients,' and their babies! In these days, when horoscopes are being displayed in respectable newspapers, one does not have to apologize for an interest in the ancient science of astrology."

READ, ESTHER TERRY, O. T., 95 Abbe Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"During a year's leave of absence from teaching in the high school at Milton, Mass., I was appointed to Walter Reed. When I arrived October 10, 1918, the 'flu' was at its height and ward work was discontinued for awhile. I was assigned to Major Baldwin's office to get data and fill out 'registers' for the men. In January 1919 was given charge of the Commercial Dept. In March following was made Head Aide. In late summer, the Academic Dept. came under my supervision. Resigned August 1920. In April 1921, after two weeks' training (V. B.) in Washington, I was sent out to Valmora, N. M., as Educational Director. This center was closed in November, and men and teacher were sent to Fort Lyon. Served as teacher until I resigned November 1922, to enter business in Denver.

"Owing to illness of my mother, returned home in March 1923. Entered my brother's Flower Shop. Eventually took the Shop over, adding gifts and greeting cards, and in 1926 moved to a better location. Now the 'Green Owl Gift Shop' is established at 778 State St., a year-round shop with a branch during the summer season at Lord's Point, Conn., a seaside resort between New London, Conn., and Watch Hill, R. I."

SMITH, GERTRUDE (Mrs. Frank D. Stewart), O. T., Medford, N. J.

"December 1918 to June 1922, Walter Reed. Married April 21, 1921 to Corporal Frank D. Stewart, a veteran of the First Division. Moved to New Jersey and bought a small country home in the boyhood neighborhood of Mr. Stewart; there Sarah Anne, our only child was born August 17, 1922. We have a fine boy in our home, too. He is a fatherless lad of thirteen who lives here as really as does our own child. Besides being homemaker to my little family, I have two interesting hobbies. Since November 1925 I have been Household Editor of Pennsylvania Farmer. This is a weekly periodical serving country homes especially in Penn., N. J., Del., Md., and W. Va., and is most inspiring work. I have also started a Quilt Pattern Service, operated largely through leading magazines. Old time favorites have been used as models and patterns can be bought. This has been real sport. My pantry had to be transformed into an office."

"Enlisted August 1, 1918. Mobilized at Hotel Albert. Sailed on the Saxon in convoy of twelve boats, with Base 52, September 23, 1918. There were ten P. T. Aides, including Marguerite Sanderson, Chief Head Aide, and nine O. T. Aides. One girl was too late in arriving to sail with us. After a rough voyage, we landed at Liverpool, England, October 7, 1918, and went directly to Southampton. October 10th, we crossed the Channel to La Harve. We arrived at Rimaucourt via Paris, October 12th. Stayed there two weeks, then transferred to Savenay, for duty at Base 8. I worked on Wards 12, 10, 8, and 6, for eight months. Base 8 went back to the U. S.; Base 69 took their place, but our work was not disturbed. We were without funds for equipment or supplies. Each of the ten aides (Louise Green, Chief Aide) contributed five dollars to start the fund.

"A furlough was granted—two weeks for six months service, March 17th, and another aide and I visited Paris, Lyon and Grenoble. April 20, 1919, my orders came to sail for N. Y., from Brest. April 25th, we boarded the German boat, Cap. Finistere—American crew and four German officers. We made the trip in about nine days. After two weeks at Hotel Albert, was sent to Cape May. I was there one month; transferred about June 1st to Fox Hills. Discharged June 1920. I am now at the Medical Center, Presbyterian Hospital, N. Y. C."

WALKER, NELL, O. T., 508 High St., Columbia, Mo.

"My first assignment was Lakewood, March 9, 1919. Transferred to Fox Hills May 1919 and remained until September 1920. Resigned and returned to the University of Missouri to complete a few credits. Was there for one month when I was notified that my dear 'Uncle Sam' again needed my services. I lacked so little of having completed the requirement for my degree the University allowed me to complete the rest by correspondence, so I accepted the appointment and was sent to Arrowhead Springs, Calif., Nov. 1920. The Government was at that time using for a hospital what had been a beautiful resort just seven miles out in the country north of San Bernardino, Calif. In August 1921 I resigned, as I was being strongly urged to accept a position as Instructor in Spanish in the University of Missouri. During that winter in California I managed to complete the work for my degree, and the degree was conferred in June 1921, while I was still there, and I won Phi Beta Kappa besides, without even knowing it until I returned here that fall to teach.

"Have been teaching here ever since. Have also completed work for a Master's degree (1926). My Master's thesis, on a Spanish subject, was entered in a contest conducted by 'La Prensa,' a New York Spanish newspaper, in co-operation with the National Association of Teachers of Spanish. I won first prize—$250.00. That honor pleased the people here so much the University of Missouri had my thesis published as one number of the Research Quarterly of this University.

"While working for my Master's degree, I spent the summer of 1923 in Mexico City, Mex., taking Graduate work in the National University of Mexico."

WARREN, ELISABETH B. (Mrs. Tod Lindenmuth), O. T., 56 Commercial St., Provincetown, Mass.

"I was graduated from the second intensive training course of the Boston School of O. T. in the summer of 1918. I should have received my appointment before the armistice, but owing to lost papers, consequent delay, new examinations, etc., it did not come till January 1919. Reported at Camp Lee. As we were the first aides there we had to organize the department, as well as make our own equipment. Remained until the department closed in June. Transferred to New Haven. Owing to ill health, requested discharge in July 1919.

"In the winter of 1920, under the auspices of the R. C., Katharine Alden, another graduate of the Boston School, and I established the O. T.

Dept. in the V. B. Hospital, West Roxbury, Mass. (Psychopathic patients only). We left a few weeks later when the Army took over the department and sent aides.

"I had already gone back to my Art work, which at that time was illustrating children's books. Later I went abroad and studied etching in England; then here in Provincetown where I met Tod Lindenmuth, known for his block prints and paintings of sea subjects. We were married here October 28, 1925. We have a son, Peter Lane, born November 7, 1927, and a daughter, Ann Warren, born September 12, 1929." Thirty original etchings by Elisabeth Warren were exhibited in 1930 at the Art Center, in New York City.

WELLS, MARGARETTE A., O. T., 197 West Chestnut St., Wauwatosa, Wis.

"Served at Fort Riley, January 8 to July 20, 1919; Fort Sheridan, July 1919 to October 1920. After Fort Sheridan days, I worked for the Red Cross in the Navy for four years—one year at Great Lakes with 'Crummy' and Florence Oberman, and three years at Washington, D. C. It was mighty interesting and worth while, and I'd recommend to anyone a hitch in the Navy. I felt that I needed a vacation from O. T., so I went to New York and worked for the Kardex-Rand Co., installing filing systems from Brooklyn to the Bronx. That really was loads of fun flitting from a Wall Street broker's office to a wholesale dress house; from Columbia University to the world's funniest out-land furniture store; from a New Jersey bank to one of the big clubs. It was such a lively existence I haven't gone back to O. T. yet!

"Spent a year with a friend in Connecticut, helping her run a book and tea shop near Wilton called The Book Barn. After that, nearly a year in a book shop in Greenwich Village. Now I am at home for several months keeping house while my sisters have a vacation from meal planning and home duties."

"Stations of service: January to July 1919, Camp Sherman; July 1919 to September 1920, Fort Sheridan; September 1920 to May 1923, Walter Reed. After I left Walter Reed, I came to California. For three years, I had charge of the P. T. Dept., at Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle, Calif. Was married April 14, 1927. We have a poultry ranch on Murray Lake, eleven miles east of San Diego.

"One of the most treasured memories of my Army experience is 'The Dugout' and the boys who worked to make it a success. To Mrs. Rea who so generously financed the project, we owe our lasting thanks. Dear General Glennen with his kindly smile and co-operation endeared himself anew to the boys, when he dined with them as an honored guest. If possible he always granted any request made for their benefit. The Red Cross through Miss Lower contributed its share of help and came to the rescue when we needed assistance; and the K. of C. gave us shelter for winter gatherings when weather did not permit gatherings outside. I can see the old camp fire now, with the wheel chairs and crutches parked about, and the boys singing 'There's a Long, Long Trail a Winding,' one of Mrs. Rea's favorites. After a good supper they always sang with more pep.

"It meant plenty of hard work for my leisure hours, but worth it, and from letters I get now from the boys, I know it is a happy memory for them also."

HUMPHREY, JUANITA

HUNTINGTON, ELIZABETH, P. T.

Attached to Base 114 during service in France and for a short period at Base 6. Born September 23, 1893, at Belle Haven, Conn., daughter of Dr. George Sumner Huntington of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University. Her early years were those of a New York child brought up in an atmosphere of brownstone respectability. Later she became a librarian in the New York Public Library and did editorial work on The Youth's Companion. A volume of her poems, The Playground of the Gods, was published in 1921; but it was not until after the death of her father in 1927 that she began work on a novel. In Denver on May 11, 1928, she was instantly killed in a motor car collision. Although she had finished her novel, The Son of Dr. Tradusac, and it was in the hands of the publishers, it was not published until after her death.

IRELAND, ALMEDA (Mrs. Charles L. Ireland), O. T.

LAIRD, JEAN E., O. T.

"Went to Fort Des Moines February 1919 to teach commercial work. When hospital closed in October, was transferred to Fitzsimons. Discharged November 1923. Went to Miami during the boom, and became private secretary to the manager of a firm selling road machinery. Remained three years. Went through the 1926 hurricane and took a trip to Cuba during that time. Returned here (Blenheim, Ontario, Canada) because of the death of my mother. Have a large house in addition to my father, age 85, and a motherless nephew, eleven, to look after. My present hobby is amateur theatricals, but manage to study some Spanish and French."

Miss Laird attended the W. W. R. A.'s Convention at Chicago in 1929, though she was ill at that time with a serious infection in one foot. She returned to Canada. The poison had apparently gone through her system. She did not realize the end was near. Her sister, Mrs. Howes of Chicago, arrived on the day before her death on May 21, 1930.

LOWDEN, GLADYS (Mrs. Oscar Raeder)

Camp Lewis. Died in 1927. Known as "Happy." MACMINN, CAROLINE (Mrs. R. L. Boggs), O. T.

WEYANT, BELLE, O. T.

At Letterman in 1923.

WHITEHOUSE, MARION, O. T.

"On Thursday, January 22, 1931," writes Alice Hatch, "Marion Whitehouse answered her last Roll Call. Her history is complete. All the aides who were with her during the years at Walter Reed, and during the earlier months at Fort Benjamin Harrison, can well imagine the courage with which she bore the terrible suffering that preceded the end, and at the last faced into the West to take up her greatest Assignment. Truly her soul will 'carry on.'"

WILLIAMSON, JENNIE, P. T.

Served at Parkview and Fort McHenry, Head Aide. Died December 7, 1923 at Santa Monica, Calif.
